Citizens interested in the quality of Portland's urban forest are invited to attend Concordia's first street tree inventory workshop! The workshop is part of the neighborhood's effort to examine the count, type, size, and health of the local street trees. Once completed, the inventory will help create the Concordia Neighborhood Stewardship Plan, which will include findings of current conditions and recommendations for achieving neighborhood street tree goals. All Portlanders are encouraged to take part in the inventory and consider their neighborhood's interest in a future street tree inventory and Neighborhood Stewardship Plan.
